CLOSE MODEL SCHOOL FOR A WEEK PERIOD

Teachers' Training School Will Also Be Closed on Account of Scarlet Fever Cases.

Owing to scarlet fever cases in the model school conducted in the Jefferson building in connection with the teachers' training school, it has been decided to close both the model school and the training school for one week in order that a thorough fumigation may be effected. Principal Lowth will make the following announcement:

Owing to the fact that some parents have been a little nervous concerning the spread of scarlet fever the training school authorities have deemed it the wisest plan to close the training school and its model department for one week, or until Monday March 5th. Dr. Buckmaster, the health officer, advises this as the wisest course under the circumstances. A fourth grade model school boy came down with the disease Wednesday and he had none of the symptoms on Tuesday, the health officer feels that there is very little likelihood that any child contracted the disease from him. This child was in school on Tuesday and he had none of the symptoms on Tuesday, the health officer feels that there is very little likelihood that any child contracted the disease from him. "JACK-THE-PEEPER" VISITS SECOND WARD

Prowler Gazes into Windows at Home of Paul Heinz on Caroline Street Last Evening.

Peek-a-boo "Jack the Peeper" of stand-pipe vicinity came to two years ago is at it again. The first score for residence of Paul Heinz, 100 Caroline street, was made last night. The peeper began his prowling at the home of Paul Heinz, a blacksmith, living at 703 Caroline street. The peeper was seen by the man's face at the window. He immediately called the officers but search of the neighborhood failed to discover any suspicious characters. The police, however, did not have enough evidence on the men to bring a conviction. The fact that the peeper was suddenly terminated satisfied the police that their suspects had something to do with the prowling.

The street car was standing at the corner of Sharon and South Main streets between eight and eight thirty o'clock last night when McKerns, a 30-year-old man, drove his car into the front of the street car.

HELPERS GET BOOST AFTER SHORT STRIKE

Milwaukee Road Roundhouse Laborers Stage Premature Strike As Company Debates Increase.

Roundhouse laborers with the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway here have returned to work after a strike for increased wages. The walkout affected only the day men, differences being adjusted to the extent that all were willing to stay. A temporary boost has been promised. According to Master Mechanic John Allen the company already had planned to give the increase. The matter had been settled at the division headquarters at Milwaukee and only awaited the consent of the Chicago offices, which it is claimed, regards the boost favorably.

JANESVILLE HY-Y CLUB MEETS BELLOIT SOCIETY

Twenty-one members of the local Hy-Y club journeyed to Beloit yesterday to engage in a day of contest with the Hy-Y club of that city, and to establish the fact that the prowess of the Janesville boys is at least equal to that of the Lins City youths, for the final result of the day's sports was a tie in points.

The activities of the meet were many and varied. Janesville won both bowling games, by a margin of 121 pins. In the basketball tourney, each team won a game, the local boys taking theirs by a score of 10 to 5, and the Beloit team triumphing to the tune of 5 to 0. Janesville won in the billiard match but lost in pool. Beloit also won the chess and checkers and took three out of five checker games. The Beloit relay team won the swimming race.

The Beloit club plans to come to this city later date to settle the question of supremacy. The tentative date for playing off the tie is Saturday, March 24.

WHITEWATER OPENS ITS NO LICENSE CAMPAIGN.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Whitewater, Feb. 23.—The no license campaign, opened last evening with a large gathering at the opera house to hear E. J. Vea, president of the Stoughton Wagon Works. Vea, who has prospered since he went "dry" eight years ago. The no license people are going to put up a hard fight again this year and they think they have gained in numbers. They believe that the butting of the memorable election on the license question last year when the result was in court two months before a decision was made, has caused votes for them. The murder of Chas. Viscio by a man who had been drinking has also added help to the "dry" cause. And many other incidents the past year seem to have helped the no license people all the more and they stand the first chance of making the city "dry" this year they ever had before.

The high school was closed yesterday on account of Washington's birthday. Sessions were held today.

Ripon College plays the Normal and at the gym here this afternoon. The members of the M. W. A. who live in the country near this city beat the town members last evening at a checkers contest at the Woodman hall. A delightful time was had and an excellent luncheon was served after the contest.

OBITUARY.

James Shikenjanski.
The death of James Shikenjanski, which occurred early this morning at his home, 1238 Racine street, following an illness of but one week from pneumonia, comes as a deep shock to the many people in this city who knew and admired the man. Though a native of Germany, Mr. Shikenjanski lived in this city for most of his life. During this time he has won the respect of many with whom he came into association in a business way and being of an unusually congenial disposition, he numbered his friends among all classes and types of people.

Mr. Shikenjanski was born May 7, 1876, in Germany, and was brought as a baby to this city by his parents. In 1903 he was married in Chicago to Rose Kaina. For the past eight years he has been a driver for the Rock River company.

He is survived by his wife and six children: Edward, Leo, Esther, Camilla, Martha, Mary, and by his mother, Mrs. Rose Shikenjanski, who lives at 1238 Racine street, Beloit; by four sisters, Mrs. Felix Tempel of Iedlands, Calif., Mrs. M. A. Chesborough of Los Angeles, Calif., Mrs. J. B. Riley of Chicago, Ill., and Mrs. Barker of this city, and by two brothers, Frank and John Shikenjanski of Janesville.

Funeral services will be conducted Monday morning at 10 o'clock at St. Mary's church; the Rev. Father Gobel will officiate. Interment will be in Mount Olivet cemetery.

Kathleen Evelyn Spalding.
The death of Kathleen Evelyn Spalding, which occurred early this morning at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Spalding, Beloit, brought deep sorrow to this home. Though but ten months old, the little girl occupied a place in the family that makes her loss tragically sad for the mother and father. She was the only child.

The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon at half past two from the home, 2109 Magnolia avenue. The Rev. Father Gobel will conduct the services. Interment will be in Oak Hill cemetery.

Mrs. Katherine Switzer.
Word was received here this morning of the death of Mrs. Katherine Switzer, which occurred this morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George Moran, 554 High street, Beloit. Mrs. Switzer was for many years a resident of this city, and was well known as an exceptionally capable and charming woman. Her friendship was one that was cherished by all who were in a position to appreciate her, and to recognize her devotion to those about her.

HONOR WASHINGTON AT K. OF C. PROGRAM

Matheson Gives Oration—Council Wires Resolution of Loyalty to President Wilson.

About one hundred and fifty members of Carroll County, Knights of Columbus and their lady friends were present last evening in the council's rooms, and enjoyed the exercises held in honor of George Washington, whose birthday was fittingly honored and celebrated in every city throughout the United States yesterday. A fitting program had been arranged for the occasion. Alexander Matheson of this city was the principal speaker of the evening. His oration on the "Life of George Washington," a masterpiece, was truly enjoyed by all present. Mr. Matheson briefly outlined the life of the great statesman, and narrated historical achievements accomplished by him, who once guided the nation's progress as chief executive, the first president of the United States.

A copy of the oration, which was a masterpiece, was presented to the life of Abraham Lincoln, who, too, like Washington, he said, holds an enviable position in American history.

The resolution adopted is as follows: Resolved, That Carroll County, Knights of Columbus, Janesville, Wisconsin, in session on this anniversary of the natal day of the father of our country, and celebrating that event, do hereby pledge anew our fealty to our country and express to President Wilson our loyalty and our individual and collective support in such action as in his judgment seems necessary to maintain our country's rights and honor. We pray that the Divine Hand may guide him unerringly in the course that will bring enduring honor to our nation and an early and everlasting peace to the nations of the world.

The above resolution was dispatched to President Wilson today.

STOLE PINCHERS FOR DRINK; TO JAIL FOR THIRTY DAYS

William Howland, a transient blacksmith, stole a pair of pinchers from his employer, James Gardner, and sold them to get drunk. The police took him in custody. Later they recovered the pinchers from a farmer to whom Howland had sold them. In municipal court this morning a charge of drunkenness was brought against him and upon his plea of guilty Judge Maxwell assessed a fine of $25 and costs or thirty days in jail. This charge, rather than one of larceny, was decided upon when Howland said he would get out of town after serving his sentence.

Chas. R. Harper of the state department of education, Madison; Prof. F. J. Lovth of the county training school, and County Superintendent O. D. Antisdel were present and each gave a very interesting and instructive talk, which with a well planned and well rendered musical program by the school under the direction of a very capable teacher, Miss Betty made up a very enjoyable evening. The program was followed by a box social.

The people of the district are to be complimented for their generosity in furnishing a substantial building of adequate size to meet the needs of the community. The first floor contains a large school room with seating capacity for fifty pupils, separate cloak rooms for boys and girls, and a nook for bookcase, drinking fountain and school supplies. In the basement is a large, well lighted room that may be used for various purposes, and rooms for heating plant and fuel. The building is on a concrete foundation, walls are of vitrified red brick, laid in heavy joint of white mortar, and the exterior is painted white. The building is on the bungalow plan (making a new type of rural school building) and being surrounded by large maples and elm trees the whole makes a rather pleasing combination.

The building was designed by W. H. and F. J. Blair of this city. S. N. Kothner was the general contractor. Kohler and Cassidy, painting contractors, and Sheldon Hardware Co., heating contractors.

NEWS NOTES—MOVIELAND

67 DAISY DEAN

Lucille Young, the beautiful dark-haired actress whose work in heavy dramatic roles is well known to picture audiences, and whose recent spectacular appearance was as Mary Magdalene in "Intolerance," has become a member of the contingent at Santa Barbara, California.

Miss Young's first appearance is to be in the feminine heavy role in William Russell's future release, "High Play." Mr. Russell and his supporting cast are now at work on this production.

Miss Young was born in Lyons, France, and she possesses all of the artfulness of the French woman. She is exceedingly good looking, with eyes and mouth, and wonderful hands and arms. In this picture Miss Young wears a gold snake bracelet which was given her by a French nobleman, who was deeply interested in Miss Young's work when the young actress was playing in her native land.

HARD WORK FOR MARGUERITE

If one may believe the protest of Marguerite Clark after her reckless disregard of the truth in "Miss George Washington," it is a very complicated process for an actress to play the role of an actress on the screen.

That is why the little star has been doing in "The Fortunes of Fifi" in which she will soon be starred. The trouble lies in submerging her own personality, endowing the actress with the impersonating with a personality at the same time getting over the role which the supposed actress is playing. Miss Clark would class this type of acting under the general caption of hard work.

INGENIOUS GLADYS

Miss Gladys Hulette qualifies as a thorough modern burglar in "Pots and Pans Peggie."

The heroine she impersonates is sent to recover lost papers from a locked room. It was her own idea to poke a vacuum cleaner through a transom and inhale them.

Marion Sals, who is a large landholder in Utah, is placed in savings in her big ranch near Lund.

BOWER CITY BAND BOOSTER CONCERT

Arrangements Being Made for Benefit Performance at Myers Theatre on March 29th.

The Bower City band proposes to present its first annual booster concert on the evening of March 29 at the Myers theatre, according to the arrangements which have been practically completed by the management. The proceeds from the entertainment will be used for the benefit of the band musicians' organization. A program of two parts is being tentatively drawn up. The first part will include band selections, a vocal solo number by Robert S. Daley and a quartet number by the Lakota club quartet. The second part will be a sketch of a typical band room practice night with humorous dialogue and instrumental numbers.

The Daily Novelette

WITH APPLE SAUCE.

Tantum Z. Snooks, president of the Backwash County Bank, sat back in his new oak swivel chair and puffed placidly on one of his Henry Ford cigars. A whole box reposed at his elbow, and as the evening wore on, they retailed at six cents apiece.

Suddenly he started up in wrath, indignation, astonishment, and offended dignity. Si Sourweed and his son Gilette had entered bearing a great fat squealing pig.

"Look a-here, Si Sourweed!" roared President Snooks, "you ain't supposed to bring live pigs into the president of banks' offices! I don't allow nobody to bring live pigs into this here sanctum! I wouldn't allow the Czar of Siam to bring a pig in here. I wouldn't allow the president of Egypt."

"Set 'em down careful, GH," cautioned Farmer Sourweed. And he and Gilette deposited the burrowing porker in the guest chair.

"I want to deposit him, president," explained Sourweed worriedly.

"What?" sputtered Snooks, almost swallowing his color button.

"It's this here way," went on Sourweed. "This durn pig has swallowed a check for $4003.20—the proceeds of my hull dishberry crop. We stopped by the hardware store on the way down and bought an X-ray machine, so you can spot the check for yourself. It seems to be between his skittle bone and his regisseed."

Snooks looked into the pig through the X-ray, saw the check, and immediately became all smiles, apologies, bows and scrapes.

"You may consider the pig deposited, Mr. Sourweed," he said suavely.

And immediately upon their departure he called up his wife and told her to send back the butcher's meat, the reason being that the wife was able to add her coupons to his and get a casket. So the coupons were not wasted after all. Equally fortunate was the St. Louis man whose baby ate (eat) of his coupons. He didn't have enough coupons left to get a stomach pump for the baby, so he got a shotgun for it instead.

POWER TO INDIA FOR SELF RULE

London, Feb. 23.—Another step toward self-government in India is promised by the British government in the report, issued, of the Royal Indian Commission, appointed some time before the war to consider means "to widen the avenues of Indian participation in the administration of the country." The report, voluminous document, has been ready for more than a year, but has been "purposely delayed with a view to avoidance of controversial discussion." During the war the report was not put into effect without delay.

The most important change in Indian administration will be an increase in the number of British direct India for posts in the higher civil service. At present these posts are filled in England, although Indians who have resided a certain time in England may compete on an equal basis with Englishmen in the examinations here. In the future, however, there will be a bifurcated enrollment, with definite proportions of the higher posts reserved for Indians educated in their own country.

In the police department the preponderance of the appointees will still come from England, "having regard to the nature of British responsibility for the good government of India." In certain other services, such as agriculture and forestry, half the appointees will come from India. Moreover, the British will be admitted to the various services is to remain open as before to Indian candidates, and those successful are not to be included in the proportion reserved for Indians in India. In the case of the police, indeed, the English door

Saving Coupons.

With a knowledge of the few simplest rules of arithmetic, such as our ad says, every average person can spend a pleasant lifetime saving coupons. Many persons starting in a modest way and saving up for an eggcup are inspired to greater ambition and start saving up for an ewe. There is something noble about the way some people save coupons. A Wisconsin man saved coupons for ten years to get a pair of military brushes and when he finally had enough he happened to realize that he had grown bald in the meantime. He died in a convulsion of grief. Fortunately his wife was able to add her coupons to his and get a casket. So the coupons were not wasted after all. Equally fortunate was the St. Louis man whose baby ate (eat) of his coupons. He didn't have enough coupons left to get a stomach pump for the baby, so he got a shotgun for it instead.

Heart and Home Problems

By Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson
Letters may be addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in care of The Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young lady twenty-two years old. Several months ago I was going with a young man whom I loved dearly. He didn't love me but he went with another girl, too.

I couldn't help showing it. We didn't get along very well for a while and then we had a quarrel and I told him I didn't like him any more and that he needn't come again.

Then one day I met him at a party. He was pleasant and asked me if I still disliked him. I said that I didn't dislike him and so he asked to come over again.

He came twice, but he was so touchy both times that he did not have a good time. He blamed me, but I had learned my lesson before when we quarreled and I didn't say any more sharp things.

Now the man I used to love has come again and told me that he is thoroughly ashamed of the way he acted. He says he did not appreciate me, but now he does. He asked me to go to a party with him. I accepted. I don't know what to do because the other two men like me very much and I have let them on. I am ashamed to say. But I didn't realize what I was doing at the time. I was so homesick for the man I love that I had to take up my time in somes way. Please advise me what to do. I don't like to hurt people and I am very much ashamed of the mess I have got into.

To be fair to the other men you cannot drop them right away. Let them come to see you, too. Many girls get in the same predicament when they have lost the man they love. It is only natural for a person who has lost his love to turn quickly to someone else and to pretend that it is a new love. You have made a mistake and now correct it as unselfishly as you can. Consider the peace of mind of the two men as well as your own. You may not enjoy their company but you will be glad to realize that your heart belongs to someone else.

Don't think that the battle is won with the other man, either. You may find him just as unsatisfactory this time as you did before. Perhaps if you hadn't been going with someone else, he wouldn't have come back. Don't let him see how much you care for him.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have white hair. Will you please tell me of a shampoo to use? I have used a very good one but it has not helped. I have used white hair. Nothing must be used that will impart the slightest yellow tinge, for it is hideously ugly in white locks.

The white of an egg may be used for an egg shampoo, and the white should be beaten to a stiff froth with an egg beater.

Perhaps the best shampoo is made of pure castile soap, shaved fine, and dissolved in boiling water. The solution may be kept in a large bottle and a little poured out in a bowl for use. Wet the hair first, then apply the dissolved soap and rub to a lather with the hands. Rinse in at least four waters and to the last rinsing water add a teaspoonful of bluing water.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Is it all right for a girl of nineteen to go to a restaurant with a boy to have six o'clock dinner?

(2) Who should do the ordering?

(3) Who should walk into the restaurant first, the boy or the girl?

(1) Yes. (2) The boy. (3) The girl.

NO WASTE AT WAIST
IS FASHION EDICT;
FROM OMNIPRESENT

Mildly This Spring and Summer
Wears 'Em Straight Down
The Front.

By Margaret Mason.
(Written for the Gazette.)

One's breadth of waist or lack of it. This year will safely hide. Concealed beneath the chemise frock. So straight of line and side. Ah, would that all one's surplus chin could thus so smartly hide.

New York, Feb. 23.—It is indeed fitting in this period of excessively costly living that there should be no waste but not quite so fitting that there should be no waist. The truth is that you could hardly call it fitting at all the way the new frocks and suits hang straight and severe of line with no hint or dent of a curve or gentle intake.

We have had hips, my dear, and hoops, my dear, but now nothing but straight long lines will do. It's certainly going to be lumpy going for puffy persons.

With their clinging ways, coat dresses and chemise frocks tried awfully hard to get around us all this winter but while the many have been straightening out, a few have been straightening out for us. The straight line is the new line. However this Spring and Summer we must all capitulate and kiss our waists goodbye. There is no more equal to such an acrobatically agile stunt.

Girdles and sash effects are omnipresent on all these straight lines. They are a bit to break the rigid outline of your silhouette. Indeed it would seem that Dame Fashion were striving to emulate Puck, that satyric spirit of the "Night's Dream."

In his famous boast "I'll put a girdle roundabout the earth in forty minutes." For she has certainly put a girdle around at least the feminine portion of the earth in less time than that.

Most of the girdles are flat bands of the same material as the suit or gown that they cling around. They pull them in a bit to break the rigid outline of your silhouette. Indeed it would seem that Dame Fashion were striving to emulate Puck, that satyric spirit of the "Night's Dream."

There's a mad taste for tassels too, and they dangle from pockets, collars, cuffs, and most every available spot. Pockets aren't the only places where they are found. Possibly because they break the slim contour of the straight line and in order to accentuate that same straight line, short skirts are all forgotten. The short, comes of the last few seasons and decorously slinking ankleward.

Henceforth you may be short of breath, short of skirt—that is, not much above the ankles. And since our conversation has reached the ankle level it is not altogether foot gear that we must turn to. At last after chic Parisians, smart Londoners and Frenchy Argentine beauties have worn the short, vamped, snubbed, high heeled Paris shoes and slippers for long seasons they are now at our lagging feet. Whether we will kick up much fuss about being shod in these long as they are broad effects is yet to be seen.

Truly and the long winter our pedal extremities are to be driven to extremes it seems. Footies really look much thinner in these new French foot fashions if you don't mind looking a bit as if you had club feet. Up-to-date I haven't glimpsed any of a real American foot but there are lots on hand in the smartest Fifth Avenue shops.

Colored, laced, strapped and in all colors of suede kid, a silk, satin and patent leather they are like the shoes of another season save for the absence of difference of absolutely absolute stilettoes. Where heretofore our vamps were as long and pointed as a wily curtain lecture.

Since Fashion has just put her foot down in short vamps for long vamps, however, if it looks like we are to have nothing for us to do but toe the mark in these round toed boots. Verily the footprints on the sands of summer time are bound to look a bit blunt to say the least.

Household Hints

MARSHMALLOW FUDGE.
Two cups sugar, one cup cream, one cup marshmallows, one cup milk, four cups flour, one cup seedless raisins, four teaspoons baking powder. This will make two loaves.

Raisin Loaf Cake.—One cup raisins, one cup sugar, three eggs well beaten, one cup walnuts chopped, one pound seedless raisins, one tablespoon cinnamon, Mix well and let raise until light, bake in loaf pan.

Raisin Bread Pudding.—Make custard of one quart milk, add bread in small pieces, one cup raisins, three eggs, four tablespoons sugar, one cup vanilla and nutmeg, then bake.

Raisin Chocolate.—Put one-half cake vanilla sweet chocolate in a sauce pan over boiling water. When melted add two level teaspoons butter and two of boiling water. Dip raisins and put on oiled paper.

ADJUSTABLE MUFFIN RECIPE.
Since the price of eggs, butter and sugar have gone soaring why not use this muffin recipe, which is quite inexpensive.

Cream one-fourth cup butter and one-fourth cup lard together; add one cup sugar, yolk of one egg well beaten, one cup flour mixed with two teaspoons baking powder and one-fourth teaspoon salt, one cup milk, beaten while of the egg and one cup raisins. This recipe makes eighteen muffins.

Nuts may be used instead of raisins, or raisins may be omitted and chocolate added.

A favorite frosting recipe, which requires no cooking is as follows: Requires one bowl one and one-half cups powdered sugar, three teaspoons cocoa, three tablespoons melted butter, three tablespoons hot coffee, a little vanilla, stir until smooth.

The muffin recipe can also be used for a loaf cake, and it is delicious any way it is made.

THE TABLE.

Why is it that the average woman distrusts labor saving devices and sheers away from using them even after she has bought them?

The other day I was visiting a friend who needs to have things as easy as possible. On the kitchen wall hung a device for reminding oneself what to order from the grocer.

It was as simple as anything could be. Heads were on wires opposite a list of groceries. When you wanted to order something you slipped the bead over. No writing to do, no book or pencil to get lost, just an ultra simple way to shift the burden of ordering off your mind.

I thought What a Nice Gift It Would Make.

Bethinking myself of its possibility as a gift, I asked her if she used it a great deal.

She said, "Some times."

"Why not often?" Well, one thing, look at that list. Lots of things, silly things instead—beer for instance and "hominy." I'll bet a man got them up.

That's the Trouble With Many Devices.

To that part of her complaint I was ready to agree. Mechanically the thing was perfect, but I hadn't been adapted to the uses of an average home. I think that is the trouble with many labor saving devices.

But in this case, at least, the device was simple enough to correct if she wanted to be helped—simply write the name of the commodity ordinarily used over the other.

Again, I found a neighbor sighing over a big trencher of meat she was chopping off for fifteen minutes.

"Why don't you get one of those meat choppers?" I asked.

"Why I've got one," she said, "but we always did chop our meat for mince meat and I never thought of using it."

Why Women Don't Take to Labor Saving.

We were talking the matter over afterwards and wondering why women are so much behind men in accepting the efficiency movement.

"Because women are their own bosses," said the author, "the housewife, and of both men and women shrink from doing things differently. Men have to because their employers make them. Women are their own employers and it is hard to make themselves do something they don't want to for an end."

Don't you think he is pretty near right?

HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

THE LUBRICATION OF THE INNER TUBE

The liver is no longer fashionable. Its complaints are listed mostly in almanacs nowadays. We have found a new word—auto-intoxication—to take the place of the shopworn "liver complaint," and we are working this new term pretty hard.

Auto-intoxication is familiar to everybody. Auto-intoxication means self-poisoning. The victim prepares the poison himself in his inner tube.

If the food remains too long in the inner tube the hordes of bacteria there seize upon it and decompose it. Some of the by-products of this decomposition are poisonous when absorbed into the blood.

Especially the by-products of protein decomposition, that is to say, meat residues or worse, meat broth or soup residues, will poison you if you go on a long, long time before the victim realizes it.

Fortunately the ductless gland apparatus of the average individual is capable of reaching to the presence of poisonous substances in the circulation in sufficient degree to oxidize, break up or otherwise render them harmless. It is only after years of auto-intoxication, when the old machinery of the ductless glands begins to tire and fall, that the patient experiences the general and special symptoms of auto-intoxication.

The symptoms are chronic tired feeling, lack of ambition, dullness of intellect, sallow complexion and mouth patches or "liver spots," as the old doctors said, then bad breath, abdominal discomfort, drowsiness, dull eyes, headaches, etc. The special symptoms are too numerous to mention.

It has been shown by thousands of X-ray photographs that a very common cause of auto-intoxication is intestinal stasis—stasis meaning stand still. Somewhere along the alimentary cook; add a little more butter and put in chicken, veal, etc., cut up small. Thicken with a little flour.

Scalloped Potatoes and Hamburg Steak.—Prepare potatoes for scalloping. (without milk). Now mix following ingredients with about one pound of more of hamburger steak. Bread or cracker crumbs, one egg, well beaten, salt and pepper, one or two onions (cut up fine). Place one layer of potatoes in baking dish. Layer of hamburger sauce, then another layer of potatoes. Dish is full. Then pour over one pint of milk or more, according to amount of meat and potatoes used. A few canned tomatoes (not juice) may be added to flavor.

Molasses Cup Cakes.—One egg, well beaten, two-thirds cup granulated sugar, one-fourth cup butter creamed, two-thirds cup molasses, two and one-quarter cups flour, one teaspoon soda (rounded), one teaspoon cream tartar (level), one cup milk, one or two teaspoons cinnamon, one or two level teaspoons vinegar put in the last thing. Bake ten to twelve minutes in hot oven. This makes twenty medium sized cup cakes.

Stuffed Chicken.—One nice fat chicken; clean well, fill with stuffing, place in roaster breast down. Heat two and one-half cups water to boiling point, add one tablespoon paprika, one-half cup onion, one-half cup salt, one-half cup pepper, one-half cup vinegar, one-half cup Worcestershire sauce, one tablespoon butter, one cup boiling hot water. Mix all together, stirring well. This makes a nice dry dressing, and when made with the steamed chicken is splendid.

PRESIDENT IN REQUEST WOMANN MAY HEAD GREAT SCOTCH COLLEGE.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Aberdeen, Scotland, Feb. 23.—It is unofficially reported that Aberdeen University, the Chancellorship (or presidency) of the University, which is vacant through the death of Lord Elgin, is to be offered to the Duchess of Fife.

A lady as the head of a great English University would be an academic revolution unprecedented in Great Britain, but it is pointed out that in these days when women are so frequently outnumber the men it would be entirely fitting that the Chancellorship should not be confined to one sex.

Another name prominently mentioned in connection with the vacant post is that of Lord Bryce, former Ambassador to the United States.

ENGLAND REFUSES TO DEPORT ALIENS

London, February 23.—The British courts have decided that the government has no right to deport to Russia or France, citizens of those countries who have refused here. An order of deportation may be issued against any alien, but the order must not specify the country to which the deported alien must go.

The decision completely nullifies the widely proposed deportation of all allied aliens for military service in their own countries.

The test case discussed by the courts was that of the Duke de Chateau Thierry, a French subject of military age, resident in England prior to the war, against whom the British government made an order of deportation to France at the request of the French government. No offense or misconduct was alleged against the Duke, but the home secretary claimed the right to deport him under certain war legislation which authorized him to deport aliens, while the war continues, "whenever such deportation is incidental to the safety of the realm."

The Duke contended that he was a royalist, and therefore a political refugee, and stated in his affidavit that he had been threatened, ever the telephone, with the fate of being placed in a dangerous part of the firing line, notwithstanding an English medical certificate of unfitness.

The French government disclaimed any political animus against him, or any intention to treat him as a fugitive, but claimed him as of military age and subject to military service.

The courts, without entering into these disputed questions of fact, took the broad ground that while the home secretary has discretion to make a deportation order, he has no power to select the country to which the deported alien must go. The order was accordingly quashed and the Duke restored to liberty.

Tears and Snares in the Jaynes Home of Molly's

"If you are going to allow Clyde to bring that girl here, I am going away," Augusta Jaynes looked with scorn at her mother who was sitting in a state of collapse by the open fire.

"Oh, Gustie," the mother lamented, "I'm going to let her come. Why do you speak so to me? As if I had no trouble enough. To think of Clyde's being married and not telling his own mother."

"You could at least have refused to have her brought here," was the tart answer.

"Gustie, you know how people talk in a little town. I wanted to put the best face on the matter."

came brokenly from the depths of the heart.

"He need not have gone somewhere else. He need not have brought his disgrace here for us to stand by. Your father wants him to stay and earn the business and he is willing to do it."

"Yes, I imagine how much he will earn the business. That is just a bid to make father willing to give him the money he needs now. I wonder at him. I really do. I think he is getting as blind to Clyde's faults as you are and it is his blindness that has ruined him. You would never believe he could do anything wrong. The girl's voice rasped on her mother's nerves awfully.

"Oh, he was such a darling little boy. To think I should see such suffering on his account."

"You talk as if you were the only one who suffered because of Clyde's wrong doing. You were to blame for his actions, and I never was; yet I have to suffer for them. I believe I suffer more than you do, for you do not seem to see the thing in its true light. It is not too late yet. You could write him not to bring her here."

"Oh, that would mean that I would never see him again. I can't do that. He is my son, whatever he has done." She again buried her face in her handkerchief.

"Well, I am going away and I shall stay away till Mrs. Clyde is out of the house."

"No more of that talk my girl." Augusta started, for her father stood in the door. He had seldom heard that tone in his daughter's voice. She had said it and from under when she did hear it. "I want you to understand that I will not stand for any hateful slighting treatment of Molly. See that there is none of it. If you wish to go away that is your privilege, but she will be here when you come back and she is one of the family." Augusta arose and left the room without a word. Her bright red spot burned on her cheek.

"Don't cry, Gertrude. This marriage may be the making of the boy yet. I have hope that it will be. I know you would go to the last ditch to save your boy just as I would. Clyde will never live down the consequences, and we must reap as he has sown. What I want to do is to get him out of a second crop. He is worth harvesting. You can help him to do that by doing all in your power to make this marriage a success." He paused by her chair and laid his hand on her head. His tears only flowed the faster. She reached her hand out to him, saying:

"To think of its coming to this."

"Yes, we made mistakes in training him, and now we are taking the consequences. The only thing you can do now is to try to be strong enough to help instead of hinder; for this is a crisis in his life."

HEART OF THE SUNSET

Alaire watched him with interest. "Where shall I go," she asked, "and what shall I do?"

"You just pick out a good cover beyond the water hole and stay there, ma'am. It may be a long wait, for something may have happened. If so, we'll have to be close. And don't worry yourself, ma'am; he won't make no trouble."

With the sunset the water hole lay sleeping.

Alaire's retreat was far from comfortable; there was an ant's nest some where near her and she thought of moving; but suddenly her breath caught and her heart jumped uncontrollably. She crouched lower, for directly opposite her position, and outlined against the sky where the sharp ridge cut it, was the figure of a mounted man. She was conscious that a keen and hostile pair of eyes was searching the coverts surrounding the charco.

Then, as silently as it had appeared, the apparition vanished beyond the ridge. Alaire lay close, as she had been directed, praying that the horseman had been warned; but shortly she heard again the rustle of stiff branches, and out into the opening rode a Mexican. He was astride a wiry gray pony, and in the strong twilight Alaire could see his every feature—the swarthy cheeks, the roving eyes beneath the black felt hat. A carbine lay across his saddle horn, a lariat was coiled beside his leg, a cartridge belt circled his waist. There was something familiar about the fellow, but at the moment Alaire could not determine what it was.

After one swift, appraising glance the newcomer rode straight to the verge of the water hole and dismounted; then he and his horse drank side by side.

It was the moment for a complete and effective surprise, but nothing happened. Why didn't Law act? Alaire bent low, straining eyes and ears, but no command came from the Ranger. Then, as if in answer to her perplexity, a second horseman appeared, and the woman realized how simply she had been fooled.

CHAPTER III.

What Happened at the Water Hole.

The newcomers exchanged a word or two in Spanish, then the second rider flung himself from his saddle and made for the water. He was lying prone and drinking deeply when out of nowhere came a sharp command.

"Oiga! Hands up, both of you!"

The first arrival jumped as if a rattlesnake had buzzed at his back, the second leaped to his feet with an oath.

"Drop your gun, compañero!"

Both Mexicans cried, as if at a cue, "Who speaks?"

"A Ranger."

The fellow Law had addressed let fall his rifle; two pairs of dark hands rose slowly. Then the Ranger went on in Spanish:

"Anto, lower your left hand and unbuckle your belt." Anto did as he was told, his revolver and cartridge belt dropped to the ground. "And you, compadre, do the same. Mind you, the left hand! Now face about and walk to the charco, both of you. Good!"

Law stepped into view, his Winchester in the crook of his arm. He emptied the three discarded weapons, then, walking to Anto's horse, he removed the second carbine from beneath the saddle-flap and ejected its shells into his palm.

"This done, he addressed the stranger. "Now, friend, who are you, and why are you riding with this fellow?"

"My name is Pandio Sanchez, señor. Before God, I have done nothing. The speaker was tremendously excited. In the midst of his incoherent protestations Mrs. Austin appeared.

"He is telling you the truth, Mr. Law," she said, quietly. "He is one of my men."

Both Mexicans looked blank. At sight of the speaker their mouths fell open, and Pandio ceased his gesticulation.

Mrs. Austin went on: "He is my horse-breaker's cousin. He couldn't have had any part in that murder in Jim Wells county, for he was at Las Palmas when I left."

Pandio recovered from his amazement, removed his sombrero, and blessed his employer extravagantly; then he turned triumphantly upon his captor. "Behold!" cried he. "There you have the truth. I am an excellent, hard-working man and as honest as God."

"Surely you don't want him," Alaire appealed to Law. "He was probably helping his countryman to escape—but they all do that, you know."

"All right! If he's your man, that's enough," Dave told her. "Now then, boys, it will soon be dark and we'll need some supper before we start. It won't hurt Anto's horse to rest a bit, either. You are under arrest," he added, addressing the latter. "I won't tie you unless—"

"No, señor!" Anto understood perfectly, and was grateful.

"Well, then, build a fire, and you, Pandio, lend a hand. The seora will need a cup of tea, for we three have a long ride ahead of us."

No time was lost. Both Mexicans fell to with a will, and in a surprisingly short time water was boiling. When it came Law's turn to eat, Alaire, who was eager to be gone, directed her employee to fetch the ranger's horse. Pandio acquiesced readily and buckled on his cartridge belt and six-shooter. He was about to pick up his rifle, too, but finding Law's eyes inquiringly fixed upon him, he turned with a shrug and disappeared down the arroyo. It was plain that he considered his friendly relations well established and resented the ranger's suspicion.

"How long has that fellow been working for you?" Law jerked his head in the direction Pandio had taken.

"Not long. I—don't know much about him," Alaire confessed. Then, as if in answer to his unspoken question, "But I'm sure he's all right."

"Is he looking up range for you?"

"No—no! I left him at the ranch. I don't know how he came to be here, unless—It is rather strange!"

Dave shot a swift, interrogatory glance at Pandio's traveling companion, but Anto's face was stony, his black eyes were fixed upon the fire.

With an abrupt gesture Law flung aside the contents of his cup and strode to Pandio's horse, which stood dejectedly with reins hanging.

"Where are you—going?" Alaire rose nervously.

It was nearly dark now; only the crest of the ridges were plain against the luminous sky; in the brushy bottom of the arroyo the shadows were deep. Alaire had no wish to be left alone with the prisoner.

With bridle rein and carbine in his left hand, the ranger halted, then, stooping for Anto's discarded cartridge belt, he looped it over his saddle-horn. He vaulted easily into the seat, saying:

"I hid that mare pretty well. Your man may not be able to find her." Then he turned his borrowed horse's head toward the brush.

Anto had squatted motionless until this moment; he had not even turned his eyes; but now, without the slightest warning, he uttered a loud call. It might have served equally well as a summons or as an alarm, but it changed the ranger's suspicious into certainty. Dave uttered an angry exclamation, then to the startled woman he cried:

"Watch this man! He can't hurt you, for I've got his shells." To his prisoner he said, sharply: "Stay where you are! Don't move!" The next instant he had leaped into the brush on the tracks of Pandio Sanchez, springing the tired gray pony into vigorous action.

It was an uncomfortable situation in which Alaire now found herself. Law was too suspicious, she murmured to herself; he was needlessly melodramatic; she felt exceedingly ill at ease as the pony's hoof-beats grew fainter. She was startled by hearing other hoof-beats now; their drumming came faint but unmistakable. Yes, there were two horses racing down the arroyo. Anto, the fugitive, rose to his feet and stared into the dusk.

"Sit down!" Alaire ordered, sharply. He obeyed, muttering beneath his breath, but his head was turned as if in an effort to follow the sounds of the pursuit.

Next came the distant rattle of loosened stones—evidently one horse was being urged toward the open high ground—then the peaceful quiet evening was split by the report of Law's thirty-three. Another shot followed, and then a third. Both Alaire and her prisoner were on their feet, the woman shaking in every limb, the Mexican straining his eyes into the gloom and listening intently.

Alaire had begun to feel the strain of the situation and was trying to decide what next to do, when David Law came riding out of the twilight. He was astride the gray; behind him at the end of a lariat was Bessie Belle, and her saddle was empty.

Mrs. Austin uttered a sharp cry.

Law dismounted and strode to the prisoner. His face was black with fury; he seemed gigantic in his rage. Without a word he raised his right hand and cuffed the Mexican to his knees. Then he leaped upon him, as a dog might pounce upon a rabbit, rolled him to his face, and twisted the fellow's arm into the small of his back. Anto cursed, he struggled, but he was like a child in the ranger's grasp. Law knelt upon him, and with a jerk of his lariat secured the fellow's wrists; rising, he set the knot with another heave that dragged the prisoner to his knees. Next he booted Anto to his feet.

"I've a notion to bend a gun over your head," Law growled. "Clever little game, wasn't it?"

"Where? Did you—kill him?" the woman gasped.

Alaire had never beheld such a demonic expression as Law turned upon her. The man's face was contorted, his eyes were blazing insanely, his chest was heaving, and for an instant he seemed to include her in his anger. Ignoring her inquiry, he went to his mare and ran his shaking hands over her as if in search of an injury; his questioning palms covered every inch of gleaming hide from forelock to withers, from shoulder to hoof, and under cover of this task he regained in some degree his self-control.

"That hombre of yours—didn't look right to me," he said, finally. Laying his cheek against Bessie Belle's neck, as a woman snuggles close to the man of her choice, he addressed the mare: "I reckon nobody is going to steal you, eh? Not if I know it. No, sir; that hombre wasn't any good, was he?"

Alaire wet her lips. "Then you—shot him?"

"I didn't say I shot him," he told her, gruffly. "I warned him first, and he turned on me—blew smoke in my face. Then he took to the brush, afoot, and— I cut down on him once more to help him along."

"He got away?"

"I reckon so."

"Oh, oh!" Alaire's tone left no doubt of her relief. "He was always a good man—"

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" now and then—a bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—a sick headache—a torpid liver and are constipated, you'll find quick, sure and only pleasant results from one or two little Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take one or two every night—just to keep right. Try them. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

"Good? Didn't he steal my horse? Didn't he aim to get me at the first chance and free his compadre? That's why he wanted his Winchester. Say! I reckon he—needs killin' about as much as anybody I know."

"I can't understand it," Alaire sat down wearily. "One of my men, too?"

"This fellow behaved himself while I was gone, eh?" Law jerked his head in Anto's direction. "I was afraid he—had tried something. If he had—"

Such a possibility, oddly enough, seemed to choke the speaker, and the ferocity of his unfinished threat caused Mrs. Austin to look up at him curiously. There was a moment of silence, then he said, shortly: "Well, we've got a horse apiece now. Let's go."

The stars had thickened and brightened, rounding the night sky into a glittering dome. Anto, the murderer, with his ankles lashed beneath his horse's belly, rode first; next, in a sudden silence, came the ranger, his chin upon his breast; and in the rear followed Alaire Austin.

Under the stars, at the break of the arroyo, three hundred yards below the water hole, a coyote was slinking in a wide circle around the body of Pandio Sanchez.

OPEN LONDON THEATRES EVERY SUNDAY NIGHT TO ACCOMMODATE SOLDIERS.

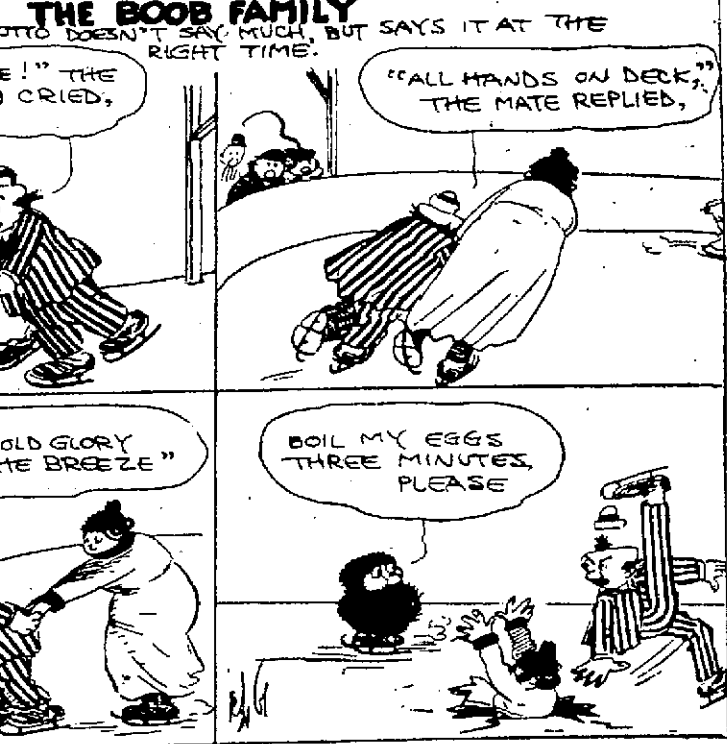

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

London, Feb. 23.—Because 20,000 soldiers wander about the streets of London every Sunday night with nowhere to go, the authorities have been prevailed upon to consent to allow a few theatres to be opened for their entertainment. The law requiring theatres to remain closed on Sundays is rigidly enforced in this country, only moving picture houses, and those in limited number, being allowed to run. Now, however, some of the large theatres where regular performances are given on week-days are to be permitted to remain open for the benefit of the fighting men.

CHINESE PARLIAMENT DOWNS CONFUCIANISM AS OFFICIAL RELIGION.

Mother Praises Remedy That Relieved Her Baby

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin Is a Dependable Family Laxative.

Nearly all the sickness incident to a baby's life is due to constipation, or inaction of the bowels. At the first indication of irregularity in this important function, relief should be afforded promptly. A mild laxative should be administered to gently carry off the congested waste and leave the stomach and bowels free to perform their allotted tasks.

Of the various remedies recommended to relieve constipation, the combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin, as prescribed by Dr. W. B. Caldwell and sold in drug stores under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is the most effective. It contains no opiate or narcotic drug, is pleasant and gentle in action, and quickly brings the desired relief in an easy, natural manner.

Mrs. C. J. Douglas, Mason, Ill., writes that she cannot say enough in praise of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin as a dependable family laxative. Little Mary Eva had been badly constipated until they tried Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which brought the first natural relief the child had in two weeks.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is sold in drug stores everywhere and costs only fifty cents a bottle. To avoid imitations and ineffective substitutes be sure to ask for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. See that a facsimile of Dr. Caldwell's signature and his portrait appear on the yellow carton in which the bottle is packed. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 455 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

constipation, and the measure was lost by a vote of 264 to 265.

Many politicians have refused to participate in the religious discussions in parliament, which have resulted in much bitter feeling. Three and a half million Chinese have stood behind the members of parliament who opposed the adoption of Confucianism, and conducted a very effective campaign. The position of the Christians was that no religion should be recognized by the government, but that persons of all faiths should be permitted to practise their religion without government hindrance or support.

IRELAND'S INDUSTRIES FLOURISH DURING WAR.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Dublin, Feb. 23.—"Trade in all departments of Ireland's industrial life is so active and prosperous that it is difficult at times to realize in this favored island that we are in the middle of the third year of a great war," says Robert Colvill, president of the Bank of Ireland, in his annual report on banking and industrial conditions. He adds:

"The flax industry of the North is prosperous and the exports of Irish linen for the past year were two million pounds sterling more in value than in the preceding year. Ship-building has also been carried on with energy, and our main industry, agriculture, is very prosperous. The prices for cattle, horses, and all ordinary live stock have been extraordinarily high, while the prices of oats, barley and wheat have been more than double the normal."

A Medicine for Women

For Forty Years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has Relieved the Sufferings of Women.

It hardly seems possible that there is a woman in this country who continues to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial after all the evidence that is continually being published, proving beyond contradiction that this grand old medicine has relieved more suffering among women than any other medicine in the world.

Mrs. Kleso Cured After Seven Months' Illness.

Aurora, Ill.—"For seven long months I suffered from a female trouble, with severe pains in my back and sides until I became so weak I could hardly walk from chair to chair, and got so nervous I would jump at the slightest noise. I was entirely unfit to do my house work. I was giving up hope of ever being well, when my sister asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took six bottles and today I am a healthy woman able to do my own housework. I wish every suffering woman would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and find out for herself how good it is."—Mrs. Karl A. Kleso, 596 North Ave., Aurora, Ill.

Cincinnati, Ohio.—"I want you to know the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was in such bad health from female troubles that I could hardly get off my bed. I had been doctoring for a long time and my mother said to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound." So I did, and it has certainly made me a well woman. I am able to do my house work and am so happy as I never expected to go around the way I do again, and I want others to know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."—Mrs. Joseph Corwin, 1688 Harrison Ave., Fairmont, Cincinnati, Ohio.

TIGERS IN RUNNING; STRONGER THIS YEAR THAN EVER IN PAST

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 23.—The prediction is justified that Detroit will have the strongest team this year that has represented it in the American league since the old championship days. There is, nevertheless, an atmosphere of uncertainty about the club that has local sportsmen guessing.

The outlook is bright, but there is a cloudy horizon prevalent. On form, the team should be exactly as strong on attack as it was in 1915 and again in 1916. In addition there should be an improved pitching staff.

Five outfielders will be taken to the training camp at Waukegan, Ill. Of these, Cobb and Veach will play regularly. Whether Crawford will again appear early in the season, understanding him will be Harry and Nicholson, newcomers to the circuit, and possibly Harry Heilmann, the hard-hitting first baseman who appeared to advantage early last season. Crawford couldn't play half the time in 1916, and he averaged barely a putout a game for those he did appear. Walter Sam probably is through.

The old infield of Burns, Bush and Vitt is expected to be as good as ever. Reinforcing the infield will be rookies Dyer, Ellison and Jones, all good batsmen. It is planned to carry them throughout the season as pinch hitters and emergency men. They will be developed to regular berths two or three seasons hence. Spencer and "Red" Spencer will do the catching. Spencer came back to the majors last fall, and was able to break into a score or more games. He demonstrated that he could handle major league pitching. His average was .371 and his backstopping was of the highest order. Second string catchers will be McKee and Yello, the latter a recruit from the International league.

There is no good reason to expect ill of this army of talent. It has the class. There is a weakness in right field, but it was there last season and was no reason.

The pitching, as usual for the Tigers, will prove the big problem. Harry Coveleski always wins his twenty games or more, and will be the anchor man. Dubeck is gone, his place having been taken by Howard Eganke, a young right hander who made a great record in the York State league and then showed class in the majors during the closing weeks of the season. He is ranked as a find.

Bill James will get into shape this year or go hungry. He has a lot of ability. While Mitchell did some fine hurling last fall, after he had been transferred from Cleveland. Boland has lived out of doors all winter, playing jockey to a mail truck, and is in better shape than he ever was. Cunningham is a youngster who is developing nicely. Daves had a horrible season in 1916. No one knows what he will do this year. They took good for the coming season, but as usual the Detroit critics are leary of the fingers.

Some new slab talent will be tried.

"Doc" Richards and his trained Goldfish had a match game with the Railroad five at the West Side alleys last night, and aside from beating the local five man team record, they also rolled the second highest individual game on these alleys. With persistent coaching "Doc" finally got his slippery shooters to beat down 1,010 of the goose-neck woodenware. Their grand total was 2,890.

The Rails, knowing they were up against what perhaps is the classiest five in the city, pushed themselves to the limit. Their showing was commendable, they securing 2,630 pins. The scores:

ARRANGE FOR ANNUAL BOWLING TOURNAMENT

Janesville Bowling Association Makes Plans for Games Beginning March 12 and Continuing to 31st.

Plans for the second annual tournament of the Janesville Bowling association are being formulated according to the secretary, E. C. Baumann, who is exerting every effort to secure a large entrance list in the various events. The tournament will open on Monday, March 12 and will continue until the end of the month. The five men teams will bowl at Miller's alleys on North Main street and the doubles and singles will be rolled on the west side alleys on North Academy street. There will be no drawing for prizes, and contestants may use alleys which are open.

The bowling association plans to have a large attendance of bowlers from neighboring cities here for the tournament and special arrangements will be made to see that visitors are given every consideration. Janesville citizens and business men are urged to operate in the affair to insure its success.

Entry blanks may be had at either of the alleys or from E. C. Baumann, secretary of the local association. A prize of one dollar will be charged for each event, with the cost of the games extra.

MORRIS MILLER

Less than a dozen left-handed hurlers have managed to survive ten seasons of big league pitching. Dating it from the days of Lee Richmond, the dandy of all southpaws, to the present time one can find only eight in the majors, and George W. Rucker of the Brooklyn team is the last to be classed as one of them.

The clever Rucker has just managed to squeeze in his tenth season. That is unless "Nap" has another lease of life, which is hoped for by all lovers of the game, for no pitcher has anything on the hero of Alpharetta when it comes to genuine popularity.

It was in 1907 that young Rucker made his first appearance as a big league pitcher with the Brooklyn club. Very unsophisticated young was this southpaw variety of the Georgia peach when he landed in Brooklyn. It was the first trip north of the Mason and Dixie line he had ever taken. His contract was a very severe kink in his neck which bothered him considerably for a few weeks.

The buildings were much taller in Greater New York than he had been used to gazing at down Alpharetta way. However, the youth, Mr. Rucker, offset this by imparting a mysterious kink in every ball he threw, which was the cause of many of the opposing batsmen kinking their backs trying to connect with it.

For seven seasons "Nap" Rucker strove for fame, glory, and salary with a team behind him that was a persistent second division outfit. When the great Rucker was going the team was going. Now the Brooklyn team is coming and today is one of the strong organizations of the game the erstwhile brilliant southpaw is going, slowly but surely slipping—such is baseball; such is fate.

It would be a mighty combination if Rucker was the Rucker of yore and his team was going the pace it did last season. The scores of sensational games he pitched and were wasted on the old teams from 1907 until 1911 would be a fine asset today for both Mr. Rucker and the Brooklyn team.

"Nap" Rucker classed with the best southpaws of the old and new school. Not quite of the Tom Ryan or Babe Waddell type of left handers, yet he had many games on his list which were as sensational as the best efforts of these two wonders.

Rucker was more of the Kilroy, Morris, Hahn type, and in spite of his tendency toward the phenomenal class of southpaws he possessed control that was remarkable. In 333 games he issued slightly over two passes per game. With forty-five wild pitches and seventy-six batsmen hit in 333 games shows unusually fine control for right or left-handed pitchers. The deceptive curves that Rucker used were baffling to all batsmen.

Night fans will be astonished to learn that Harry Stone has scored a knockout in Australia, perhaps the first during his career. According to advices from Sydney the fans got tired of him winning on points over nearly every man he met and consequently Harry lost a deal of his drawing power. His bouts were notoriously lackluster and fans got that they would not go to see him, because they felt sure that the contest would go twenty rounds and not contain any excitement. Stone, however, of late has developed a punch.

He almost knocked Jack Cole out a few weeks ago, got Fritz Holland grooved, and on New Year's night knocked out one of Australia's most promising lightweights in the person of Percy Young. This contest strengthened his reputation as a vigorous fighter. He beat Young down twice in one round for nine seconds and in the "unlucky thirteenth" round sent him down three times for the same period. Angelo Marre, who was acting as referee, then stopped the unequal contest.

U. HIGH TO PLAY LOCALS TONIGHT

Janesville to Meet Husky University High Team at Gym This Evening.

Tonight University high basketball squad will take the floor of the local gym against the local high team in an effort to repeat the victory won by them on January 27, last. But they will have a much greater task ahead of them than they had the last game, according to the statement of one of the men closely connected with the local team. The university high bunch are a husky aggregation and they are coming down tonight with the intention of taking back the scalp of the local high team.

Janesville has had the misfortune of losing their lanky center, William Feirn, who has fractured two of the bones in his hand. But this will not cause the team to lose any extra strength, as Feirn will be shifted to center, in Feirn's place, Kober "Willie" has nursed that long swollen thumb of his back to its natural size and will appear in tonight's game with renewed energy.

The following men will appear in suits: Kenning, Davey, Cassidy, Cushing, Sprackling, Hager and Morse.

Surplus articles about the house may easily be turned into cash by telling the people through the want ad columns.

I. A. C. WINS TITLE; BEAT MYSTICS 32-17

East Sports Club Quintet Has Easy Time With Masonic Five.—Seward and Blue in Third Place.

Hats off to the Chicago I. A. C. They won the central states' basketball championship in their own gymnasium. The Mystic A. C. were the victims. The final was a walk-away for the winners, 32 to 17 being the count. The Seward Park Blues took third place in the meet when they defeated the Hebrew Institute quintet, 32 to 30, in a game replete with fouls and underhand play on the part of both teams.

The central division champs got an early lead and at the end of half time had the game safely tucked away, 22 to 7. They played mainly on the defense in the second half. Each team in this time scored ten points.

Wolf of the Institute five had a foul called on him and instead of handing or bouncing the ball to the referee, he hit him with it. He was banished.

There will be a rush of players now to sign their contracts before the training trips start. Those players who have already signed have proved that they are wise. To settle under the present conditions will be a lot harder than it was two weeks ago.

POTATO IS LEGAL TENDER; BUYS TWO BEERS AT MONROE.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Monroe, Feb. 23.—A potato passed as legal tender for two glasses of beer here today. The customer having drained his glass drew from his pocket a genuine white potato about size of a hen's egg and deposited it regretfully on the bar. The bartender raised the cash register, deposited the tuber and then turned to the customer: "I haven't a bit of small change. Better drink the rest of it up," he suggested.

The customer agreed and thus the entire potato was squandered.
